Waiting On The World To Change by John Mayer

Me and all my friends we're all misunderstood they say we stand for nothing and there's no way we ever could now we see everything that's going wrong with the world and those who lead it we just feel like we don't have the means to rise above and beat it so we keep waiting

waiting on the world to change we keep on waiting

it's hard to beat the system when we're standing at a distance
so we keep waiting
now if we had the power to bring our neighbors home from war they would have never missed a Christmas
no more ribbons on their door and when you trust your television what you get is what you got cause when they own the information, oh they can bend it all they want that's why we're waiting

we keep on waiting

it's not that we don't care we just know that the fight ain't fair so we keep on waiting

and we're still waiting
waiting on the world to change we keep on waiting waiting on the world to change one day our generation is gonna rule the population
so we keep on waiting

The coping around the edge of the pool was covered with tile and topped with stone.Floor FramingWhen the concrete in the foundation walls had set, the framing of the addition began. Since much of the main wall facing the water was composed of three 9’x 9’ window units, it was important to make the framing between them as strong as possible.The steel straps that had been embedded in the concrete foundation were attached to the wood framing to tie the entire structure together. Drill a hole near the bottom of the bucket, feed the male plug on the cord through the hole, and store the rest of the cord inside. To remedy the problem, we’re adding a 500-square-foot addition—along with two porches, a deck, and a swimming pool.The scenic view comes with a price, since the addition must be built strong enough to stand up to the hurricanes that often sweep through the area. Rather than using standard concrete block covered with brick, split-faced blocks were used to give the wall a finished appearance.Once the blocks had been laid, the walls were filled with concrete to further strengthen them against a storm surge. For maximum protection, special laminated glass was used for the addition. Top reviews Most recent Top reviews This house on the Alabama Gulf Coast has a beautiful view of Mobile Bay, but the homeowners’ haven’t been able to enjoy it since Hurricane Katrina destroyed their deck in 2005. To use, set the cord next to an electrical outlet, and plug it in. ImpactGard glass has an interlayer of plastic sandwiched between two sheets of glass to keep the window intact during high winds or windblown debris.Since the large window units for this project weighed 600 pounds each, installing them took quite a bit of effort. Extra planning and beefed up construction are needed to try and keep history from repeating itself. When the liquid material is sprayed on a surface, it expands up to 100 times its original size to seal any cracks and gaps. A shallow trench was dug to guide the backhoe which removed the bulk of the dirt. Due to their long length, the rafters had to be pieced together from two pieces of lumber joined together with a diagonal scarf joint and reinforced on each side with plywood gussets.The rafters were supported every few feet by vertical struts attached to the ceiling joists, along with steel hurricane straps to tie each one to the walls. When excavation was compete, reinforcing rods were cut to fit and the footings poured.Since the lot sloped down to the water, a high concrete block foundation wall was needed to make the addition level with the existing house. Remove the cord from the bucket when in use to prevent heat build up.Best New Products with Jodi Marks:ThermaCELL Mosquito RepellentThermaCELL mosquito repellent provides an odorless 15’ x 15’ mosquito-free zone around you wherever you go. Soybean insulation does not release VOCs as some foams do and can save up to 50% on energy bills. The flange around the outside was then sealed with a self-adhesive flashing material for a watertight seal.Find out more at Room with a View, Part 2.For more information visit our Room with a View website.Other Tips from This EpisodeSimple Solutions with Joe Truini:Extension Cord CarrierA 5-gallon bucket is perfect for storing and carrying an extension cord. The butane cartridge inside the unit vaporizes the insecticide on the repellent pad to provide protection in a matter of minutes. ThermaCELL mosquito appliances are available at The Home Depot.Thinking Green with Danny Lipford:Foam Soybean InsulationSpray foam insulation made from soybeans is both environmentally friendly and energy efficient. To keep the overhang on the gable end of the roof from damaging the remainder of the roof in high winds, it was built to break away if the wind is too strong.Once all the framing was complete, the roof was decked in plywood and covered with asphalt shingles that matched the roof on the rest of the house.Windows and DoorsWhen building in hurricane prone areas, the type of windows used plays an important role in determining whether the home will survive a storm. Once they had been set in place, the window and door units were carefully leveled and secured to the framing. Ceiling joists were then installed at right angles to the heavy beams to give additional support and provide a way to attach the drywall for the ceiling.Roof FramingThe ridge board for the roof attached to the main roof of the house. Once the walls were in place, framing of the ceiling and roof could begin.Ceiling FramingThe ceiling joists and rafters add strength to the overall structure of a building, which can make a real difference when faced with the possibility of winds over 100 miles per hour during a hurricane.Laminated beams were used to span the width of the addition and tie the walls to the main structure of the house. The heavy duty 18’ long floor joists were put in place, followed by the subfloor.Wall FramingThe walls for the addition were framed and raised next. In addition, stringent new building codes must be followed and permissions secured in order for the work to proceed.FoundationOnce the location for the addition had been laid out, excavation on the foundation began. Steel straps were added to the concrete to tie the foundation directly to the wood framing for the floor.Swimming PoolExcavation for the swimming pool next to the addition was done at the same time as the other foundation work.After the shape of the pool had been established, steel reinforcement was used to add strength to the walls, and the concrete for the bottom and sides was applied.
