President’s Message

Aloha Hawai‘i Chapter Members and Friends,

The Greek philosopher Heraclitus said: “Change is the only constant in life”.

This statement encapsulates the idea that all life is in a state of flux and that permanency is an illusion. The thought that the things in life that bring us a sense of stability may not be permanent can be troubling. But think about what would life be like without change and status quo prevailed? While change might not always be welcomed or comfortable it is both unavoidable and ultimately necessary.

Though we can’t stop it, we have some choices as to how we respond to change. One option is to resist or avoid it. Unfortunately, this approach creates a general state of reaction that makes us dis-empowered bystanders. The more empowering and proactive option is to embrace change as a full participant.

As social workers we often refer to ourselves as “change agents”. But what does being a change agent mean? I think it means that we are obligated to look around us and identify where we can affect change. It also means that when change is happening we step up as full participants, not just bystanders.

As I write my first “Presidents Pen” entry, I am mindful of how much change is occurring right now; not just within our own chapter, but within NASW on the national level as well. On an even broader scale, significant reform is happening in our health care system with far reaching implications for social policy and service delivery. These reforms will impact all facets of social work. Where will social workers be when the dust settles I wonder?

Whatever the degree of awareness we have of the changes occurring around us the question we should all be asking ourselves is – “Am I a participant or a bystander”?

Very often, we want to be agents of change but are not sure where to start or what to do. If on any level you want to do more, now is the time. Get actively involved in our chapter. You are served by an exceptional board and group of committee members who have incredible vision and goals. Over the last year as president-elect, I have watched them work tirelessly for change with unfailing positivity and generosity. You can be one of them.

All it takes is an email or phone call to the chapter telling us you want to get involved and we will provide you with all the “change agent” opportunities you seek.

Aloha,

Eddie Mersereau

Delegate Assembly—NASW National

The 2014 NASW Delegate Assembly convened on August 2, 2014. The Delegate Assembly (DA) is a decision-making body that is compromised of 277 professional social workers, from NASW Chapters, who represent NASW’s diverse membership. The DA sets board organizational policies and establishes program priorities for NASW. At the 2014 convening of the DA, delegates voted on program priorities for the next three years, which will be announced by National soon. Another important items on the DA agenda was to vote on the removal of the DA from the NASW Bylaws. The proposed removal of the DA would transfer the decision making power of the DA to the National Board of Directors. After much discussion and debate the delegates voted to against the measure and the DA will retain its structure and duties. Over the next three years, NASW National and the DA will be looking at ways to improve the way in which the DA in convened and how it functions. For more information about the DA, visit: http://www.naswdc.org/da If you are interested in becoming a delegate, please contact the Chapter.

Continuing Education State of Hawai‘i Requirements for License Renewal

It has been a little over year since the passage of House Bill 178 (relating to the continuing education for licensed social workers). NASW Hawai‘i Chapter has been working with various trainers, agencies, and organizations to approve continuing education (CE) opportunities for social workers throughout our state. Throughout this year, we have received a number of questions about continuing education and have worked to diligently answer your questions in a timely manner. As we enter into the second year of the triennial period, it is important to remember the following:

For Social Workers
1. Licensed social workers need to complete and document 15 CEs, of which 3 CEs need to be ethic courses (ethic courses include ethic theory, ethical reasoning, ethical principles, ethical dilemmas, and professional ethics) by June 30, 2016, in order to renew the social work license.
2. Starting in the triennial period of 2016 and 2019 and thereafter, the licensees must have 45 CEs per triennial (for example, between 2016 and 2019 the licensee must have completed 45 CEs [3 of which will need to be in ethics] in order to renew the license prior to June 30, 2019).
3. Each licensee is responsible for maintaining and tracking records of the approved CE’s that they have completed. A training/workshop certificate that clearly states that CE’s approved by whom and the amount of CEU’s granted will be necessary for the documentation.
4. CE courses means courses approved by the National Association of Social Workers, the National Association of Social Workers Chapters, or the Association of Social Work Boards. The training/workshop must be approved by the aforementioned entities or the CE will not meet the requirements of the social work statues in the State of Hawai‘i.

There are many ways to receive your CEs. Please do not procrastinate until the last year to get all of your credits.

1. The National website offers multiple trainings throughout the year (some of which is no charge to NASW members): http://www.socialworkers.org/ce/

Aloha Fellow Social Workers,

In May of this year I celebrated my 36th year of being a professional social worker in Hawai‘i. I proudly graduated from the University of Hawai‘i Manoa, School of Social Work, MSW Program, with a concentration both in mental health as well as in gerontology. As a new social worker, fresh out of graduate school, I reached out to NASW for support, clarity about my profession, and professional guidance. The Executive Director at the time, Kathy Kreinik, was there to provide me with exactly what I needed. I knew then that becoming an NASW member was important and could provide me with the professional support necessary to continue to learn and grow in my chosen profession as a social worker. I obtained my Academy of Certified Social Workers (ACSW) credential in 1984, which opened the way to a small private practice. At the same time I was working full time in a state community mental health clinic (‘79-‘88). I received my Diplomate in Clinical Social Work (DCSW) in 1987. I was actively involved with NASW in creating a social work licensing law for Hawai‘i and later refining that law to include a clinical level of practice. I then traded my LSW for an LCSW license which was also required by my current employment at Tripler Army Medical Center. It has been important to me to keep my NASW membership active throughout my career and to thankfully give back by supporting my professional organization and the leaders in our social work community.

I am so glad to see that finally social workers have obtained a continuing education requirement under the Hawai‘i law thanks to the leadership of NASW. This has always been a focus with our national organization and a requirement under the NASW Code of Ethics. I think that the new continuing education requirement in the law gives us all not just an additional incentive to stay up to date in our field of practice, but also gives us visible credibility with the families and communities we serve.

I have worked for Tripler Army Medical Center (TAMC), Department of Pediatrics, Exceptional Family Member Program (EFMP) and Developmental Pediatrics Service for the past 26 years. I am fortunate to be one of three clinical social workers nationally that have a position like this. My role, as the Pacific Regional Medical Command, Army EFMP clinical social worker, allows me to assist with the transitioning of active duty military families into and out of Hawai‘i, and other duty locations, by insuring that family members’ medical, mental health and special education/early intervention needs can be met while coordinating these needs with the military personnel mission and career progression needs of active duty service members.

As the social worker for the Developmental Pediatrics Service, I primarily work with active duty military families, and retiree families, who have children with special needs. I am a member of several specialty pediatric multidisciplinary diagnostic and treatment teams including: the craniofacial team, the pediatric neuromuscular team, the child study team in behavioral health, and the developmental pediatrics team. I coordinate mass developmental screenings with our team in all of the military child development centers looking for children, 6 weeks to 5 years old, with developmental delays that need further evaluation and referral for treatment.
I also have the privilege of being a staff member involved with training new pediatricians through the TAMC pediatric residency training program.

In conclusion, we have all heard about the responsibilities of Active Duty, National Guard and Reserve Soldiers, Marines, Sailors and Air Force personnel to carry out the many United States Military missions throughout the world, with the most visible being the Iraq and Afghanistan wars.

I think we, the general public, really don't understand very well the real details of those missions and the deep sacrifices that the service members and their families have made for our nation. There is no easy way or succinct way to explain or express how these sacrifices have profoundly impacted not only individuals and families, but also whole communities and our larger nation and the world.

It is important to know that there are thousands of dedicated and hard-working social workers and other healthcare professionals and agency personnel throughout the various military branches, the Veterans Administration and in the civilian TRICARE provider network nationally, attempting to make a difference. We are listening to the individual stories as they are being told, one by one and applying all of the compassion, training, knowledge, resources and skills we have to offer with the hope of alleviating suffering and bringing hope and healing. As we have seen in the news, the work to be done for our active duty military, veterans and their families is tremendous. You can make a difference!

The nation needs more skilled and well trained, credentialed social workers and other healthcare providers to help. Let’s encourage our high school and college students to become social workers. They too can and will make a difference!

Resource Caregivers Receive Increased Board Payments

Effective July 2014

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: July 23, 2014
Families that care for children placed with the Department of Human Services (DHS) Child Welfare Service (CWS) Branch will receive a foster board pay increase, effective July 1, 2014. Called resource caregivers, families will receive their first increased payment in August.

To ensure that resource caregivers receive the funds necessary to provide safe, healthy, and nurturing environments for children awaiting permanent placement, the DHS requested a legislative appropriation of $8,502,936 in 2014. The budget request was passed in its entirety as part of Governor Neil Abercrombie’s 2014 executive budget package.

“Hawai‘i’s rate increase is based on the DHS’ review of foster care rates and practices in 46 other states,” explained DHS Director Patricia McManaman, “and the benefits that Hawai‘i resource families currently receive in addition to tax-free monthly foster care payments.”

Children enter and exit the foster care system throughout the year. They can remain in resource family homes for days, months, or years in some cases. While siblings are often placed together, resource families also may care for two or more unrelated children. In 2013, the average number of children per month in resource homes was 1,096. In June 2014, a total of 1,156 children were in foster care across the State.

Representative Mele Carroll, Chair of the House Committee on Human Services, was a strong supporter of increasing foster board payments. “The bill is a huge step forward to help support the foster families that are integral members of our communities.” Her Senate counterpart, Senator Suzanne Chun Oakland agreed. “I am very happy with the passage of this legislation and am grateful to the Department of Human Services, Governor, Legislature, advocates and foster families for this team effort!”

The increase in basic board payment also applies to families eligible for adoption assistance, permanency assistance, youth receiving higher education board allowance payments, and to young adults who choose to enroll in DHS’ new program of extended voluntary care to age 21.

Foster board payment rates vary across the nation. Hawai‘i based its new rates on an age-tiered system indexed to documented costs contained in the United States Department of Agriculture’s Expenditures on Children by Families annual report. The monthly per child payment to Hawai‘i resources caregivers has been increased from a base rate of $529 to $575 for 0-5 year olds, $650 for 6-11 year olds, and $676 for children aged 12 and above.

Similar to other states, Hawai‘i’s resource caregivers also receive QUEST health insurance benefits for their foster children, difficulty of care payments, and a clothing allowance. Difficulty of care payments are provided to resource caregivers that support children who require more intensive physical, emotional, psychological or behavioral care and supervision, as determined by a treating professional.

Resource families also are eligible to receive special circumstances or events payments, designated transportation costs (school bus fare or private car mileage, local bus fare) that effect child placement or promote family reunification, and $500 per child per year for extracurricular activities, social activities, hobbies, and camp funds.

Reimbursable costs include attendance at authorized meetings, respite care and child care coverage, limited liability insurance training, and enhancements necessary for the child’s growth and development (e.g. Scouts, YMCA, YWCA, community soccer, community baseball, community swimming, Boys and Girls Clubs).

To learn more about becoming a resource care giver or attending one of the statewide informational briefings, please visit the DHS website www.humanservices.hawaii.gov/ssd/home/child-welfare-services/foster-and-adoptive
